

Professor K.B. Callard Dies

Contemplation

Our lower campus is an island of quiet in a sea of noise and fumes. This is where the students of this institution can spend their free hours in the contemplation of nature and beauty. At lunch time, however, these meditative students give way to the more robust members of the intramural touch-football league.

Overflow Crowd Watches As Professors' Raft Sails

by JOY FENSTON

Members of the Professors' Raft were victims of an old McGill tradition last night. They were all consigned to the briny deeps.

Professor Miller, of the Department of Philosophy, assured the audience of the respectability of the participants, before introducing the first speaker, Dr. Armstrong, Director of the School of Commerce.

Professor Miller cited the case of a former member of the Commerce faculty, who, having faithfully attended a series of Philosophy lectures, was named President of the Montreal Stock Exchange. "So," he concluded, "If Dr. Armstrong will take my advice..." (Here Dr. Armstrong was heard to query "440?", but he was quickly put in his place by Professor Miller who replied kindly "I think it might be better for you to start with 200".)

ENTER THE STAR

At this point the Montreal Star requested a photograph, and the four huddled together, leering obligingly.

Dr. Armstrong was heard to mutter "thank you for nothing", as he acknowledged Professor Miller's introduction, but he concealed his bitterness admirably in his speech.

"The Arts crew are a pretty shifty bunch", he said. "Arts women—we all know what they're here for. Hope they get him, and he's a good provider".

"Many Arts people enter Law. They rise to the top like bubbles in a sewage disposal plant."

ENGINEERS

"As for engineers, I once asked the Dean of Engineering how many students he had studying there, and he replied "About one in twenty."

Introducing Professor Joly of Engineering, Dr. Miller recounted a rather libellous account of an incident in the Engineering Dean's undergraduate life — which we shall not reprint here for fear of libel.

Professor Joly assessed the qualities a survivor should possess and came to the conclusion that Engineers possessed them all. Therefore, by the process of logic... "The logic of the statement that the engineer should survive is so clear that no one could make any fuss about it".

ARTS AND SCIENCE

Professor Hebb, who represented both Arts and Science, described himself as "a barefoot boy from the country trying to make his way in the town", and referred to the brilliance of his opponents' arguments repeatedly.

Universities offer commerce degrees so that they can label potential money-makers as McGill men, and soak them after they graduate", he said. Engineers are useful even though they can't read.

COARSE REBUTTAL

The meeting ended with a rebuttal period, during the course of which several more or less coarse comments were exchanged, culminating in a member of the audience yelling "Sober up" to Professor Miller, who replied "the same to you".

A vote was taken. Engineering and Arts and Science ran neck and neck, with Commerce bringing up the rear, but, as the moderator observed, "there are fewer Commerce people here to make a noise, so by proportional representation, I declare a draw".

New Secretary Named For Alma Mater Fund

Alan Montgomery Nicholson has been appointed to the staff of the McGill Alma Mater Fund. The announcement was made by Chairman A. Deane Nesbitt.

Mr. Nicholson, who received his B.A. at McGill in 1954, will assume the position of Secretary for Class Agents and full-time responsibility for the Montreal organization of the Fund. The Fund, which is sponsored by the Graduate Society, is under the direction of Elizabeth A. McNab. Mr. Nesbitt explained that Mr.

Nicholson's was a new position created "as a result of the growing organization and broader scope of the Fund, particularly in the Montreal region, which has 12,000 graduates or over one-third of living McGill graduates".

After graduating from McGill, Mr. Nicholson assumed a position on the teaching staff of Sedberg School in Montebello for two years. He has also taught in Europe at Le Rosey, Rolle, and Gstaad in Switzerland.

He joined the Canadian Department of External Affairs in 1958. In that year he was in the Canadian delegation to the 13th session of the United Nations and in 1959-60 he attended the Middle East Centre for Arab Studies in Shemlan, Lebanon.

Mr. Nicholson, a son of the late Lt-Col. W. C. Nicholson, K.C., M.C., D.S.O., distinguished Montreal lawyer, is a grandson of John A. Nicholson, registrar of McGill from 1902 to 1930.

Professors and students were shocked yesterday to learn of the sudden death of Keith Callard, Associate Professor of Political Science and research associate in the Institute of Islamic Studies. Dr. Callard, who was only 37 years of age, died in Accra, the capital of Ghana, after a brief illness.

Dr. Callard was on a year's leave from the University to proceed with his studies in comparative government among the emerging nations of Africa and Asia.

Although a comparatively young man Dr. Callard had already established himself as an authority on public administration and as the author of an important study Pakistan: A Political Study.

McGill University has suffered a tragic loss in the sudden death of Professor Keith Callard, one of the ablest members of the Department of Economics and Political Science since 1948, who was increasingly of recent years devoted his time and thought to the problems of Pakistan, of South-east Asia and of Africa.

In addition to our deep sense of personal loss, because he was a close friend of many of us, we are saddened by the loss of his leadership in the developing programme of McGill's interest in helping the Afro-Asian nations.

F. CYRIL JAMES,
Principal and Vice-Chancellor

He had also contributed to many scholarly journals and was preparing material for a second book.

Colleagues and students expressed feelings of shock and regret when word of the professor's death reached the campus early yesterday afternoon. Professor J. R. Mallory, head of the Department of Economics and Political Science told reporters: "His death at the beginning of a great scholarly career is a heavy loss not only to McGill but to the world at large."

Dr. Wilfred Smith, Director of the Institute of Islamic Studies

observed, "He was a brilliant person with a brilliant future. He was just beginning to be very productive. He will be completely irreplaceable."

Sadat Kazi, a Pakistani graduate student who was studying under Dr. Callard, told the Daily "Professor Callard was a very good teacher, lucid, eloquent and scholarly. He was very kind, sympathetic, friendly and accessible to students. He was a prominent authority on Afro-Asian affairs, especially on the Islamic world. In his death the Moslem world in

The Students' Society today joins the University in mourning the death of one of McGill's best known and most loved professors, Dr. Keith Callard. A noted teacher, author and radio and television commentator, Dr. Callard will be remembered as a good friend of the Students' Society.

Students who had the opportunity of studying under Dr. Callard will recall his great ability as a teacher, his rare rapport with his classes. It is remarkable that a man so active and so successful in his academic pursuits should be able to find time to talk to many of his students individually and to support student activities as he did. The University and the students will keenly feel this tragic loss.

ROBERT CARSWELL,
President, Students Society

general and Pakistan in particular lost a genuine friend".

Political Science professor Saul Frankel called his colleague "a stimulating person, well-informed, impressive for his integrity. We shall feel his loss deeply."

Dr. Callard first came to McGill in 1948 as a lecturer in public administration. After two years at Harvard he returned in 1952 as Assistant Professor and was promoted to Associate Professor the following year.

A graduate of the London School of Economics, Dr. Callard served during the war as an officer in the Madras Regiment. During his service in the Eastern theatre he acquired a working knowledge of Urdu and developed his first interest in the problems of the emerging nations.

Faculty of Arts And Science Change of Course

Students wishing to change a course for which they are registered will be able to do so by completing the appropriate change-of-course form, which will be available in the Assistant Dean's office, room 140, Arts Building, on Monday, October 2.

These forms (3) must be completed and turned in by the student, who should call back one week later to receive his signed copy if the change is approved.

Merely turning in the form does not constitute authority for the change, and it is the student's responsibility to ascertain that the change has been approved.

The change of course period will extend from Monday, October 2 to Friday, October 6, and no requests whatsoever will be considered after this deadline date.

SEPTEMBER 28, 1961

Keith B. Callard

ERNEST Rutherford, William Osler, Stephen Leacock. These are names to reckon with in the annals of the Royal Institute for the Advancement of Learning. Keith Callard will never have the chance now to join that honour roll. Only 37 years old, he died yesterday in the city of Accra.

Despite his youth Professor Callard had established himself as a scholar of outstanding promise. His one published book "Pakistan: A Political Study" is already a standard text in its field. When he died Dr. Callard was travelling on his second Rockefeller Foundation grant gathering information for a book on the comparative government of new nations evolved respectively from the English and French colonial empires. His colleagues were unanimous in their estimate of the potential brilliance of his career.

Dr. Callard's contribution to the University lay not only in his scholarship but also in his unique status as a member of both the Department of Economics and Political Science and of the Institute of Islamic Studies. His knowledge and interest in this area has played a significant role in the evolution of McGill's own interest and prestige in the deeply important field of Afro-Asian development.

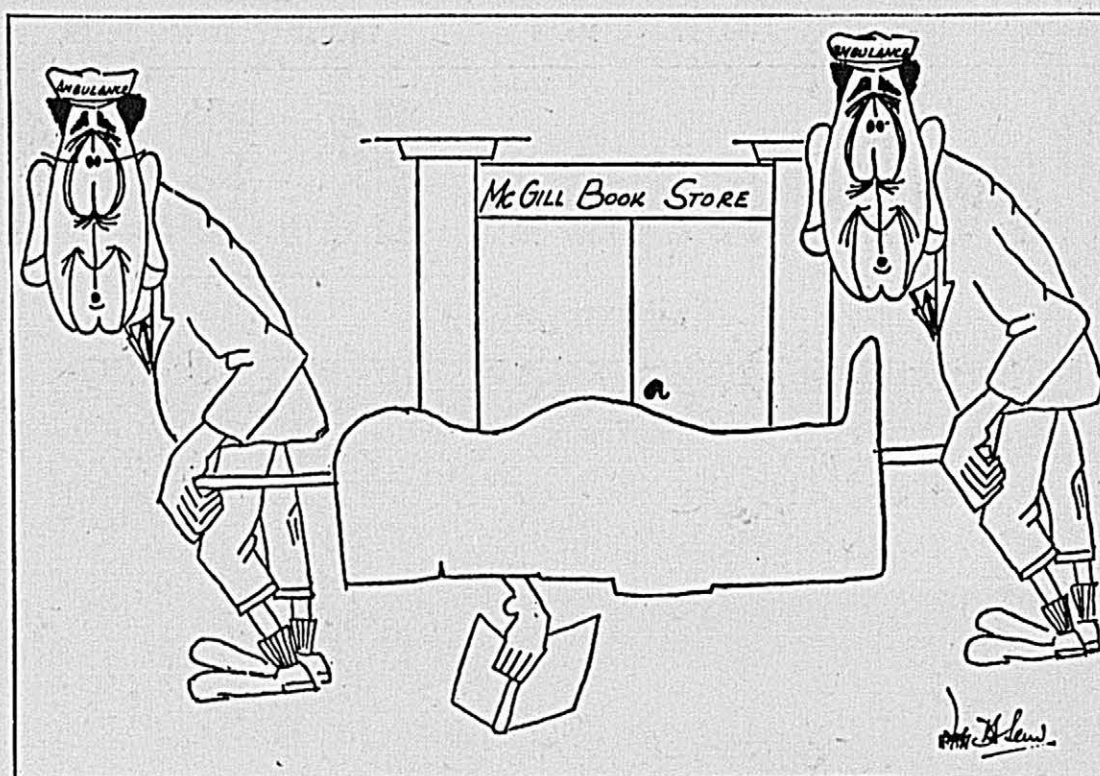

Scholar and pioneer, Professor Callard also maintained a lively and perceptive interest in affairs about him. As a frequent commentator or panelist on radio and television his incisive logic and reasoned manner were known to an audience far beyond the confines of his home University. Nor did he hesitate to answer the many demands made on his time by a variety of campus organization and to add his special brand of warmth and sanity to countless panels, rafts and meetings. The Daily has had occasion in the past to express its thanks to members of the faculty for their encouragement and support of student extra-curricular activities and Dr. Callard was always in the forefront of that distinguished band.

But it is, ultimately, as a teacher that Professor Callard made his firmest impression upon the students of McGill. Few of us were qualified to measure the depth of his scholarship or the scope and importance of his work but any student who took a course from Dr. Callard will feel themselves fortunate indeed that they passed through McGill during the far too brief tenure of this eloquent and lucid man. Keith Callard loved to talk about this subject and he made his listeners share that love. On the mysterious grapevine that rates courses and professors for each incoming crop of students Poli Sci 211G ranked as a "must" course and no one was ever disappointed with the choice.

Dr. Mallory, head of the Department of Economics and Political Science, told us last night that the death of Professor Callard was not only a professional but a deep personal loss. Speaking for the students of McGill, we too feel a sense of personal bereavement. The Daily joins with the University, staff and students in expressing our profound regret at the loss of a teacher and a friend, a man who served McGill in the finest traditions of his profession.

But The Daily would not like to let the matter rest here. We believe that the work from which Keith Callard was so abruptly shut off is and will continue to be of primary importance. We would like to see concrete steps taken so that Keith Callard's name will not fade and so that others may be encouraged and assisted to carry forward the work that he began.

Letters To The Editor

Another View Of The Smoking Room Question

Dear Sirs:

On the front page of yesterday's Daily, an article headed "Smoking Room Crisis Over" presented a coverage of the Library Committee's report of their meeting with Mr. Pennington, head of Redpath Library.

Unfortunately, the Daily chose to emphasize the least important as well as the least definite aspect of this meeting, and in doing so, falsely conveyed the impression that the Smoking room was in the final stages of being planned and that its completion would be in a matter of weeks. This statement has undoubtedly placed Mr. Pennington in a difficult position with university authorities and consequently our close relations and understanding with the Library is in danger of being dissolved.

I therefore, feel a clarification of the Library Committee's report is in order, and would appreciate the opportunity to make clear precisely what was discussed with Mr. Pennington.

The most important issues discussed at the meeting concerned the extension of library hours, the problem of the scarcity of books, and the weaknesses of the present reserve system. Mr. Pennington was extremely understanding and cooperative, taking note of everything discussed and promising his utmost effort in remedying the situation. The Committee is confident that in the next few weeks, students making use of the Library will feel in a positive manner the improvements being carried out by the Library authorities.

The Library Committee, realizing the lack of space as well as the financial implications of a smoking room, chose to bring up discussion of this matter merely as an afterthought. To its surprise, Mr. Pennington had long been at work investigating various locations where this lounge could be situated. He was anxious to assure us that the problem was not being neglected, but emphasized that no concrete arrangements had yet been made.

The Committee felt that it would be encouraging to the Students' Executive Council to be informed of Mr. Pennington's personal initiative; however, it was never agreed that this report should be made public at such a premature date. Unfortunately, the Daily reporter was not informed of this censorship, and ironically interpreted this aspect of the entire Library Committee's report to be the most important.

It is our hope that our rapport with Mr. Pennington will not be severed as a result of this misunderstanding. I believe an apology is owing for the great embarrassment which must have been caused Mr. Pennington. I must emphasize that until the time when official assent has been given by the University, the smoking room is merely a myth. I only hope that yesterday's unfortunate incident will not result in our smoking room going up in smoke.

In Defense Of Forge

Dear Ed,

I read Mr. Solway's insert in the sept. 25 Daily in which he accuses Forge, in his best French, of effectively blocking the creative expression on the campus during the past few years. Knowing quite a bit about that organization I offer a few comments.

No first class literary effort has been rejected by Forge in the last couple of years. Some marginal efforts may have been rejected. Certainly some marginal efforts were printed. If any first class writing done on the campus in the last few years did not appear in Forge it was because it was not submitted. I personally take a dim view of authors who do not submit and then complain that they are being discriminated against.

In fact I have a slush pile of the prose which was submitted for the second issue of Forge last year—the issue which did not leave the printer's in time to be distributed before exams because the material originally submitted was so bad that deadlines had to be extended until either a few of the writers known to the editors could be contacted and begged to create something that was at least readable or until they could write some stuff themselves.

If Mr. Solway wishes to read over this slush pile and salvage any gems from it, he is welcome to print them in the Daily with the authors' permission. He has a choice of many incomprehensible suicidal fantasies (half of the manuscripts) and some sub-marginal efforts which with compassion and reworking might be made readable. Frankly I was appalled at the stuff some students thought was printable.

If there is a feeling on the campus that only a member of some mythical "in-group" can write for Forge I suggest that the present editorial board have an open meeting to chat with writers who are interested in being published so that said writers will find out that the editors are really pretty well what they have always been, a rather odd-ball lot, interested in writing, who go into the third stage of joy whenever they get their grubby little hands on something that is printable which, alas, is not often.

Novice Training Starts With Exhibition Debate

The Debating Union begins its Novice Training Program to-day. An Exhibition Debate will be presented for all interested students in the Walter M. Stewart Room at 1 pm.

Charles Dalfen, Howard Golden, Andrew Roman, and Myer Shimelman will dispute the topic "Resolved that the Plymouth Rock Should Have Landed on the Pilgrim Fathers." Jack Brandes, Chairman of the Novice Training Program, will preside, and Billy Fraiberg, President of the Debating Union, will address the group.

This event is the first in a series of programs designed for those who have never debated on an intercollegiate level while at McGill. These novices are given the opportunity to learn some of the basic debating skills by attending the events planned for them. Participation in the Novice Training Program may enable students to attend international tournaments in Vermont and New York.

EXHIBITION

The Exhibition Debate to-day will be followed within the next weeks by a Lecture Series. Prominent Senior Debaters will present informative talks on the essentials of style and rebuttal. Students will be able to benefit from the experience of these speakers, and a question period will conclude each speech.

Novice Trials complete the Training Program. At the end of October, the novices, after participating in practice debates, will be asked to present short, prepared speeches. Those students who are successful in the trials will form an Intercollegiate Debating Team and engage in competition throughout the United States and Canada.

PARTICIPATION

Students are invited to participate in the Debating Union's many committees. Forms describing some of the fields of interest will be distributed at the Exhibition Debate to-day. The Debating Union welcomes all inquiries. Offices are located in the Union Basement.

Toronto University Freshman Injured During Initiation Stunt

A University of Toronto Freshman, Barry Thorpe, has been hospitalized for a neck injury suffered during an initiation stunt. Thorpe, admitted to Toronto General Hospital on Tuesday, has a chipped vertebra and is under observation, according to hospital officials.

Eighteen-year-old Thorpe, a First Year History student from Lindsay, Ontario stumbled against a brick wall during an initiation stunt conducted by the men of Taylor House, a University College residence. Upperclassmen roused the Freshmen at 7 am and put pillowcases over their heads. The accident occurred when buckets of water were dumped on the freshmen to anoint them into the House.

NOT HAZING

Taylor House President Mike Bliss said, "It wasn't a stunt. It could have happened to anyone walking downstairs. We didn't consider this hazing."

Marc Sommerville, President of the Students' Administrative Council said, "Such initiations of a non-constructive nature have no place on the University campus."

Dean H. I. MacDonald said the

The role of the Debating Chairman in Arts and Science must be filled by someone acquainted with the operation of the McGill Debating Union. The job entails working in conjunction with the Debating Union Inter-Faculty chairman, to get an Arts and Science team into interfaculty competition. Competition is held at both Novice and Senior levels. The ASUS debating chairman will arrange tournaments and debate-offs in both classes. Victors are sent to tournaments in the United States, after arrangements have been made through the Debating Union and the ASUS office.

EDITOR WANTED

ASUS NEWS, the publication of the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society has been, in the past, a bi-monthly news report of the activities of the Society. The format of the NEWS is variable and the Editor will be free to enlarge its scope and appeal. Applicants for this position should have previous experience with the operation of a newspaper or yearbook.

Publicity Chairman of ASUS will be required to publicize all events sponsored by the society. This will involve making and distributing posters and publications and keeping the Daily Office and the ASUS NEWS Editor aware of ASUS functions.

ASUS ELECTIONS

The Electoral Officer is responsible for ensuring proper procedure at ASUS elections. The job entails publicity for elections, calling for nominations, preparing the ballots, arranging for supervision at the polling booths, and tabulating the final results. Two elections are held in Arts and Science. The first, in November, is the election of the Class Presidents, and of the permanent Fourth Year Executive. The second, in March, is the election of the 1962-63 ASUS Executive.

Any student registered as a regular undergraduate in Arts and Science is eligible for one of these positions. In addition to each specific job, these members will sit on all ASUS Executive meetings.

Application forms are available at the Union Tuckshop, and must be returned there by 2 pm, Wednesday, October 4.

Track Squad Warms Up

Typical of those aspiring athletes, vying for a berth on the Intercollegiate Track and Field teams is Ed Hume — typical for they are putting their all into their respective sports. Here we see Ed as he sails through the air with the greatest of ease. He's not psychic — he used a pole.

McGill's track and field athletes are busily preparing for the Intramural and Championship meet scheduled for October 4th.

Howie Ryan, coach of McGill's track and field squad, informed the Daily, "We are setting minimum standards, that team members must meet in order to make the intercollegiate squad." There are only six holdovers on the team. They are Mike Beck, sprinter and 440; Ian Monteeth, shotput; Bob Brown, jumps; Fred Naugler, shotput and discus; and Bob Walkiw, 1 and 3 mile runner; and Pete Adams, who is last year's only double winner and holds the three mile intercollegiate record.

PROSPECTS

Ryan's new prospects include Dave Wighton, in the 880 and mile; Charlie Hudson, who was on the McGill squad in 1959, Werner Berger, pole vault; and Tim Meyer, broad jump and hop, step, and jump. However, Toronto and MacMaster are noticeably improved due to the return of record holders Bruce Kidd and Dave Dorman respectively.

After choosing a squad, McGill will participate along with Sir George in a Twilight Meet at MacDonald College, Oct. 12. Practices for the team started Sept. 18. Participating in the Intercollegiate Meet on Oct. 18 at Western will be Western, Toronto, McGill, MacMaster, OAC, and Queens.

FIELD

The McGill Harrier team edged out six competitors the 1960 championship after a twenty-one year wait. This year's Harrier squad is a strong one, comprised of such veterans as Adams and Walkiw. Newcomers are John Moule, a member of the track team in 1959 and Dave Wighton. Other stalwarts are Hudson, and Gordie MacKay, a member of the team in 1958 and 1959. Adams has been cross-country champ for the past two years. Ryan holds hopes for a third straight victory.

In summing up McGill's chances, he stated, "I believe the favorite for first place will be Toronto or MacMaster, although I am optimistic for McGill's chances at the Intercollegiate meet at Western."

SPORTS SCRAPS

by LINDA COHEN

Assoc. Sports Editor

At the last (and incidentally the first) meeting of the WAA, the office of Chairman of the Competitive Sports Council was unveiled. Formerly, this position had been assumed by the President of the WAA but it was decided that the two offices should function as separate entities.

The Chairman of the CSC shall preside over the Council whose delegates consist of chairmen of the WAA, the Athletics Night Rep, the Winter Carnival Rep, the Chairman of the Managers Committee, as well as the Chairmen of the Faculty, Fraternity and Residence Representative Committees. It shall be the responsibility of the Chairman of the CSC to present the business and recommendations of her Council to the Executive Committee for Ratification.

DUTIES

The duties of the Chairman of the CSC are fourfold: a) She shall convey information from the Executive Committee to her Council; b) Chair her Council under the Executive Committee; c) be responsible for the proper functioning of the Activities of her Council and d) keep records of all such activities.

ELIGIBILITY

To qualify for the position, one should be a third year student in good standing (i.e. to have passed the previous year without carrying any subjects). All those who have played an active part in sports over the years, meet the specifications, and are interested should pick up application forms at the R.V.C. The deadline for submitting applications is Tuesday, October 3 at 5 pm. In the future, the holder of this office shall be elected by the student body as a whole but due to the need of a Chairman to assume responsibility immediately, she shall be chosen by the Athletic Board by virtue of her qualifications.

CHEERLEADERETTES

This week, practices have been held daily to determine new girls who will qualify as Cheerleaderettes (two of these will be substitute). Captain Naomi Singerman informed the Daily that the five regular cheerleaderettes in conjunction with the cheerleaders will perform at all the home games of our illustrious Red and White team in addition to two out-of-town games (Queens and Toronto). Judging from the caliber of those who turned out, for the practices, this year's squad should be one of the best ever. The finals will take place tomorrow. Those lucky gals who make it will find it their task to spur on the Redmen throughout the game except for half-time when the majorettes take over.

Intramural Sports

Students interested in refereeing Freshmen touchfootball Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 3.15 - 4.15 are asked to contact H. Ryan, Room 3 in the Gymnasium. All students entered in the Intramural Tennis Tournament are asked to check the McIntyre Courts for time and date of matches. The draw sheet will be posted at McIntyre Courts on Friday after 1 pm.

Students who plan to participate in the Intramural McGill Championship Track Meet are asked to sign up at Intramural Office, Room 3, in the Gymnasium.
